Their Excellencies, Lord and Lady Alexander, in the drawing room at Government House, Ottawa, admire the Santa Claus, displays which will herald the official opening of the Christmas Seal Campaign in Canada on November 19th. Miss Hazel A. Hart, Director of Christmas Seal Sales for the Canadian Theoretical Association, is seen explain. for the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, is seen explaining that this is probably the first time old Santa has ever gone on a crusade. As honorary president of the association, His Excellency expressed keen interest in the fact that the Christmas Seal raised more than $1,750,000 in Canada last year, and that this money is spent on tuberculosis prevention work in the district in which it is raised. He and Lady Alexander extended their good wishes for the success of the current campaign. Her Excellency graciously accepted the Santas on display saying there were always children around the Hall who would love them as part of their Christmas

Ghost Of Civic Election

(FROM THE EDMONTON SUN)

During the past civic election cam it seems there were forces at work to benefit by any racial or religious prejudice that might exist here in Edmonton. Though we are proud of the fact that Edmonton is one of the few areas in the world that we like to think of as free of such prejudices, being Canada's most cosmopolitan urban area, still we must face up to the grim truth that there are people in our midst who would fan racial hatreds into being for their own selfish pur-DONER

Or perhaps these people suffer from an inferiority complex and find expression in religious and racial malice for exhaltation of their ego. Like the Pharisee in the temple, they pray their thanks for not being as other men are.

Young Bill Hawrelak, Edmonton's new mayor, has just won a civic election with a tremendous majority. Tremendous, we be-lieve, partly because the vast majority of citizens were aroused by an insidious effort to discredit him because his ancestors did not come from England, or Ireland, or Scotland or some other area of the world more to the liking of some of his critics.

An Edmonton voter has just sent us a letter which gives one reader's account of the election campaign:

"Dear Sir: A few days before the Civic Election a letter, apparently designed to put bir. Hawrelak into disrepute, was mailed to nearly every householder in the city. An incerpt therefrom follows: "It may even be that you must decide between a way of living that has developed in Canada and in Edmonton through the years or a possibility of a trend which might not be acceptable to you." The inference or invendo in this statement is so obvicus that it hardly needs explanation, but this passage was meant to arouse suspicions in the minus of the voters and to imply that if Mr. Hawrelak were elected he would recast our way of living and inaugurate a regime opposite to our system of government. Although our way of living and mangurate a regime opposite to our system of government. Although the election is now past history, one good purpose can still be served, to remind future traducers that they can't win a decision by hitting below the belt. They may have figured that this letter was a brilliant political manocuvre but the electors spurned these tactics and gave Mr. Hawrelak a huge majority.

When this letter was first shown to me by one of the receivers I saked him what he

one of the receivers I asked him what he thought about it. "Like a dead mackerel in thought about it. "Like a dead magners in the moonlight this campaign letter shines and stinks,' he replied; and the voters may have felt the same way about it. If this letter of mine helps to eliminate any similar nausæting propaganda in the future it will have served its purpose by lending weight to the warning that slander in an election campaign does not

We heartily agree with the sentiments expressed in the above letter and hope that never again will racial or religious prejudice figure in an public campaign to be carried on in our city

Note and Comment

The Alberta Progressive Conservative party will enter candidates in most, if not all, of the Alberta constituents at the next general election, which will take place next summer. There can be no question of the party's right to enter the political field in the province, but it is a dubious move, if the object is to defeat Social Credit and replace that philosophy with a more orthodox government.

The intention was stated as being an effort to place a stronger opposition in the legislature to the present government, but the very opposite may possibly be the effect of the decision. To divide the opposition forces in the previous in an election contest is not likely to weaken the Social Constitution. is not likely to weaken the Social Credit hold on Alberta. Judging by past political history in Alberta, the Progressive Conservatives are unlikely to get far in their campaign. Alberta has never shown much preference for a Tory philosophy in its government.

According to some official figures, the cost of living is going down. They craim it takes less time to earn an equal amount of purchasing power in terms of products now than it did in 1939.

As of June 1, 1951, the average wage of a Canadian industrial worker was 115.8c an hour, and he had to work 10.1 minutes to buy a quart of milk.

Under the same conditions a worker had to work 41.2 minutes to buy a pound of butter in 1939, and 35.2 minutes in 1951.

Always Shines Tomorrow"

"Land Where Sun

A few weeks ago the Bank of Nova Scotia opened its new build-ing in Toronto, and Premier Maqning of Alberta was asked to comment on this step forward in the Bank's history. In his state-ment, Mr. Manning gave Alberta credit for much of the prosperity of the East.

What See Mississipped You

His complete statement on the occasion is as follows:

The Province of Alberta used always shines tomorrow. It was and it is Canada's ambitious province. Peopled by those who followed the sun to the Rockies, it became first the range Fair. land of Canada, then the pioneer in agricultural irrigation and now the black gold hope of Canada's future in the world of petroleum. And it is axiomatic that there is no provincial government in Canada today that realizes more strongly, or practices more fully, the principle that government and business must work ever more harmoniously together if e are to be build and maintain those sinews of strong economic growth on which our future is premised.

In 1903, when the Bank of Nova Scotia first established in Edmonton, our capital city, even it could hardly have foreseen the horse giving away to the airplane, nor that the rancher's son would blaze the trail toward Canada's self sufficiency in oil.

Today this building is a monument to those of the east, who like ourselves, had faith in Alberta and the courage to bring that faith to realization.

On behalf of the people of Alberta, I offer all our congratulations to you on this momentous occasion,"

The Alberta Liberal Women's Association are laying plans for their convention scheduled for Jan. 29 at the Masonic Temple in Edmonton. A preliminary meeting was held at Liberal Association headquarters last week, and fur-ther announcements will be made shortly

At the same time the Alberta Liberal Association officers are starting the detail work required for their convention which folfor their convention which fol-lows on Jan. 30 and 31, and the official call will be issued shortly.

It is expected that federal mem-bers will be present for the con-vention. Senator J. W. Stambaugh. president of the association for the past several years, will be in the chair. J. Harper Prowse, Liberal leader in the province, states that this convention is of great importance, particularly in view of the expectation that a provincial election will be called in the summer of 1952. Delegates will be asked to draw up and consider the various planks for the Liberal provincial platform, and for that reason Mr. Prowse is expecting delegates from every provincial constitu-

A philosopher entertained a profound respect for the practical side of lift.

cal side of lift.

One day, assisted by his son, he tried to lead a young heifer into his barn. The gon grasped the animal's ear and attempted to pull from the front, while his father pushed with all his might and main from behind. But the stubborn beast refused to budge an inch.

In the midst of their pulling and hauling they were interrupted by a laughing Irish servant girl. Motioning the two men aside, she thrust a finger into the heifer's mouth, and the simple creature, expecting to obtain nourishment from the proffered digit, obediently followed her into the barn.

That night the philosopher glee-fully wrote in his journal: "I like people who can do things."

Taking No Chances

It was several days before little Stanley's birthday, and he was pestering his mother for a pair of skates. His mother suggested,

"Why don't you pray for skates?"
"Why are you shouting?" interrupted his mother, "God isn't hard of hearing."

"I know," Stanley replied, "but daddy is."

Customer: "One mouse trap, please, in a hurry—I have to catch a bus."

"Sorry, sir, our traps Clerk: don't come that big."

Not Love

"Your wife must be a very affectionate woman. She always kisses you when you come home." "That's not affection. She just wants to see if I've been drinking."

This Is Really Good

In a final effort to discipline her bad and wayward chick, mother hen said to him: "If your father could see you now, he'd turn over in his gravy."

Be Reasonable

his secretary.
"Don't use such long words in my speeches," he said, "I want to know what I'm talking about."

Letter to Louisa

I am the mother of one child. I have been married about three years. My husband and I should be very happy but we are not at all. The trouble is that my husband is a drunkard.

He seems like he is crazy about the baby and me except when he is drinking. He comes home and gets angry about the least little thing and fights me and says he doesn't care anything about us. Then, after it is a lover, he says he loves us and could never live without us.

I love my husband with a'l my heart and do everything I can to please him, but he gets mad and does worse than ever. He doesn't want me to have any friends at all and never go anywhere unless I'm with him.

What shall I do? I would leave him if it wasn't for the baby. He loves his daddy so much and I
